Addendum to Article 12, page 26 of Imperial Census Code.

At the last Census in most Provinces the Courts and other Public Offices were closed for a few days about the time of the Census in order that the Officials employed in them might be able to co-operate. Provincial Superintendents should move their Local Governments to take similar action on the present occasion. The dates for closing should be fixed with reference to local conditions; but generally speaking, it may be said that the assistance of extra hands is most needed on the day of the Census, when the Preliminary Record is checked and brought up to date, and on the day following, when the Provisional Totals are being compiled.
